G. G. KNOTT KILLED AT SUPERIOR PLANT MONDAY AFTERNOON

MEETS DEATH WHEN RAINCOAT IS CAUGHT BY BELT ON HERCULES MILL—FUNERAL SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY.

The entire community was shocked and deeply grieved Monday afternoon by the news that G. G. Knott, mill superintendent of the Superior Portland Cement company, had been accidentally killed while at work in the cement plant. Mr. Knott had been making some adjustments in the Hercules mill, and had completed the work and signaled to the mill tender to start the mill. He was standing on a platform watching the operation of the mill, and was wearing a long raincoat. He apparently had started to turn away from the mill, and in turning his raincoat was caught by the big belt that operates the mill, pulling him in between the pulley and the mill frame. As he was caught he shouted to the tender to shut off the power, but it was too late, and as the mill stopped he dropped to the floor. He was badly crushed about the body, and death was practically instantaneous. He was still breathing when picked up, but died in a few minutes without regaining consciousness.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, a short service being held at the residence, followed by a public service at the Presbyterian church. The services were conducted by Rev. Hugh Armstrong, assisted by Rev. H. V. Davies. The esteem in which Mr. Knott was held by the people of the community was plainly shown by the crowd that came to the church to pay its last respects to a friend and neighbor, the business houses also closing during the services.

The church was packed to the doors, and about a hundred people on the outside were unable to gain admission. The service was short and impressive. There was no music, except a solo, "Lead, Kindly Light," sung by Mrs. P. J. Lindbeck. The casket was covered by a mass of beautiful floral tributes from friends and associates. Following the services the body was shipped to Seattle and placed in the Bonney-Watson mausoleum, where it will be held until final plans for interment are arranged.

Gottlieb G. Knott was born November 30, 1885, in Ceylon, O., where he spent his boyhood and made his home until July, 1907, when he came to Seattle. He was united in marriage November 4, 1908, to Miss Eva Coover, of Seattle. To this union was born one daughter, Mary Margaret. He came with his family to Concrete in 1911, accepting a position as electrician with the Superior Portland Cement company. He remained in the employ of this company until the time of his death, having been promoted to the position of factory superintendent some time ago. He was a member of the Church of the United Brethren, and was a member of Concrete lodge No. 272, I. O. O. F. He leaves surviving him his wife and little daughter of this city, his mother (who is seriously ill) and two sisters in Ohio. He had just returned last week from a visit to his mother at his old home.

Mr. Knott was one of the best known and best liked men in the city. His work as electrician with the Superior company brought him in contact with most of the residents of Concrete, and to know him was to like and respect him. He was one of those rare men who, when placed in a position of executive responsibility, could be absolutely loyal to the interests of his employers and at the same time gain and hold the confidence and goodwill of the men working under him by taking an active interest in their welfare. In his eight years of association with the officials and workmen at the Superior plant he did not make an enemy. He was a kind and loving husband and father, a good neighbor, a faithful and conscientious workman, and a friend of whom any man might be proud. His untimely death is mourned not only by his immediate family circle, but by the entire community. There are few men in any community who are esteemed as highly as was Gottlieb G. Knott by the people of Concrete.

ALL BOLT CAMPS ON UPPER BAKER RIVER CLOSED FOR WINTER

EARLY FALL OF SNOW FORCES BAKER RIVER LUMBER COMPANY TO CLOSE DOWN CAMPS FOR THE YEAR.

The shingle bolt camps of the Baker River Lumber company in the Baker river valley have been closed down this year a few weeks earlier than usual owing to the early fall of snow on the upper river. The Burns & Ritchie camp, near Baker lake, and the H. L. Austin camp were closed last week, and the Nine-mile camp, otherwise known as King's camp, was closed down the first of the week. At that time there was about four inches of snow at the Nine-mile camp, and a somewhat heavier fall was reported from the camps farther up the river. The camps will remain closed until the snow is gone in the spring. However, a few men will remain at the camps and will cut bolts whenever weather conditions permit.

The company has enough shingle bolts on hand to keep the mill in this city in operation for about a month yet. Most of these bolts are in the pocket at the mill and the balance are now coming down the river. The mill usually is operated until the Christmas holidays, but it is expected that it will have to close down about two weeks earlier this season.

The bolt camps furnish employment for a considerable number of men through the summer months, the crews ranging from fifteen to twenty-five men at each camp. As all these men make top wages, the monthly pay roll is a considerable asset to this city. Practically all the supplies for the camps are purchased here, and a majority of the men employed make their home in town.

The camps have been able this year to keep the mill well supplied with bolts and the mill has been operated steadily to full capacity. The company has had one of the most successful years since its organization, and is looking forward to another good season in 1920.

CONCRETE EAGLES CHANGE REGULAR MEETING NIGHT

At the regular meeting of Baker aerie No. 1444, F. O. E., held Thursday evening, it was decided to change the regular meeting night from Thursday to Friday. The Eagles now meet in the hall over the Concrete theatre, and Thursday being one of the regular show nights, the music from the theatre tends to disturb the meetings, particularly during initiatory work, and it was principally on this account that the time of meeting was changed.

Thursday night's meeting was devoted almost entirely to Armistice day and the flag exercises of the order. The ceremonies were very impressive and proved very interesting to the many members in attendance. At the close of the meeting a light supper was served.

MARSHAL ROSS ASKED TO REPORT I. W. W. SUSPECTS

Following the murder of four ex-service men by members of the I. W. W. at Centralia during a parade held as a part of the Armistice day celebration Tuesday, Marshal Geo. W. Ross of this city received a copy of a circular letter sent by Gov. Hart to all peace officers asking them to be on the lookout for members of the I. W. W. and all others preaching sedition or disloyalty, and to report all suspected cases to the U. S. marshal or to the attorney general of the state. Marshal Ross says that he does not think that he has any characters of this kind within his jurisdiction, but should any turn up he will take great pleasure in handing them over to the proper authorities. He requests that any person who learns of any I. W. W. activities in the vicinity report the same to him at once.

DRASTIC ACTION FAVORED AGAINST PETTY THIEVES

The gang of young hoodlums whose depredations are becoming altogether too common in the city were again in evidence last Thursday night, when they broke into the basement of the school house and stole a quantity of eatables that had been prepared by the school girls for a party held in the building that evening. The identity of the thieves is known to all who attended the party, as they were seen sneaking away from the school house and a little later were seen gorging themselves on the stolen food. What might be overlooked as a boyish prank when done by boys in the lower grades in school, becomes plain stealing when committed by young men nearing their majority. These young men may think that they played a "smart trick," but in reality they have lowered themselves greatly in the estimation of the respectable people of the city, and have laid themselves liable to a criminal charge. There is considerable sentiment in favor of taking drastic action against them, as it is believed that this is the only way to put a stop to their petty thievings, and now that the identity of the ringleaders is definitely known, and not merely suspected, it is certain that some action will be taken unless the depredations of the gang are brought to a sudden stop.

GRASMERE SCHOOL WILL GIVE SOCIAL SATURDAY

The pupils of the Grasmere school will give a social and entertainment at the school house next Saturday evening, November 22. A short literary and musical program will be rendered, after which the evening will be devoted to having a general good time. The proceeds of the entertainment will go towards buying a phonograph for the school. All are asked to come and bring their friends and pocketbooks.

WELL KNOWN PEOPLE ARE MARRIED IN BELLINGHAM

Mrs. Martha Cummings, of Grasmere, and John Lewis, of this city, were united in marriage in Bellingham Saturday, November 1. After a short wedding trip they returned to this city, where they will make their home. Both of the contracting parties are old residents of the community and are well and favorably known in this city and vicinity. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

SOME FEATURE SHOWS ON WEEK'S THEATRE PROGRAM

The Concrete theatre is showing some excellent photoplays these days, and the program for the coming week is no exception to the rule. The big feature of the week is the seven-reel Cecil DeMille production, "For Better, For Worse," which will be shown next Saturday. This play features Gloria Swanson and Elliott Dexter, and the plot is one that will hold the attention from start to finish. Tonight Wallace Reid, who is now one of the most popular stars, appears in "The Roaring Road," a story of automobile racing that has plenty of excitement. Tomorrow night John Barrymore will be shown in "The Test of Honor." Tuesday night Elsie Ferguson appears in "Under the Greenwood Tree," a story of gypsy life, followed by a Mack Sennett comedy. Thursday night the big Universal feature, "The Sleeping Lion," with Monroe Salisbury in the stellar role, will be the leading picture, with a two-reel Western thrown in for good measure. The real movie fan will want to see every one of these shows.

MT. BAKER CAFE WILL BE RE-OPENED NEXT MONDAY

The Mt. Baker cafe, which has been closed for the past few weeks, will be reopened for business next Monday under new management. A deal was closed whereby the fixtures and equipment of the restaurant were sold by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bailey to Thos. W. Burget, of Mount Vernon. Mr. Burget arrived in town yesterday and is now busy getting everything arranged so as to open the place for business early Monday morning. He is experienced in the business and expects to conduct the place in a way that will merit the patronage of the general public. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey expect to remain in the city, and will conduct a lodging house in the rooms over the restaurant.

POPULAR CAMP EMPLOYEE MARRIES IN BELLINGHAM

George E. Barnhardt, who has been employed at the Puget Sound camp for some time past, took a short vacation last week and went to Bellingham, where he was married the first of this week to Miss Elva L. Galley, a charming young lady of that city. After a few days' wedding trip they came to this city and will make their home at the camp, where Mr. Barnhardt and his bride were given a royal welcome.

WILL HOLD CAUCUS NEXT THURSDAY TO NOMINATE TICKET

CANDIDATES FOR CITY OFFICES TO BE NAMED NOVEMBER 20—MRS. JACKSON IN RACE FOR TOWN TREASURER.

A caucus has been called for next Thursday evening, November 20, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the city offices to be filled at the municipal election December 2. The caucus will be held in L. E. Wolfe's real estate office, and is set for eight o'clock. All qualified electors of the city, which does not include those who failed to register, are entitled to participate in the caucus. It is hoped that there will be a large turn-out for the caucus, so that the ticket named may be satisfactory to all.

The offices to be filled at the coming election, for which candidates will be named Thursday, are those of mayor for two years, two councilmen for two years and a city treasurer for a one year term. Present indications are that there will only be one ticket in the field, but political forecasting is as unsafe as predicting Skagit county weather, and it is possible that an interesting scrap may develop before the date of the election.

There has been no change in the list of prospective candidates during the past week, except that Mrs. Katherine Jackson, cashier at the Concrete depot, has added her new bonnet into the ring as a candidate for the job of city treasurer. Mrs. Jackson is well qualified for the position, and as she is well and favorably known throughout the city she is liable to give the other candidates for this office a run for their money, with at least an even chance to land the nomination.

The registration is unusually light this year. When the registration books closed Wednesday night there were only about sixty who had qualified as voters, and the city administration for the next two years will be determined next month by a small minority of the voting population of the city. However, those who failed to register will have no kick coming if they are not satisfied with the result of the election.

LADIES' AUXILIARY HOLDS BAZAAR NEXT THURSDAY

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church will hold its annual bazaar next Thursday, November 20, in Wolfe's real estate office. The usual booths for the sale of sewing and fancy work will be in evidence, and a sale of home-cooked food will be one of the leading features. There will also be a number of other attractions of interest to all who come. A special meeting of the auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. David Vier, on Division avenue, Tuesday afternoon, when all completed work for the bazaar will be turned in and checked and final plans made. All ladies who are working on pieces for the bazaar are asked to turn in their work at the meeting Tuesday.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL TO MEET IN I. O. O. F. HALL

Beginning tomorrow the sessions of the Baptist Sunday school will be held regularly in the new Odd Fellows hall, formerly known as the Bryson store building. The hall has been improved and well equipped, and is now a comfortable and convenient meeting place. The Baptist Sunday school will meet regularly every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

FINAL REPORT NOT MADE IN RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

The local committee in charge of the Red Cross membership campaign, which closed Monday night, has not completed its check yet, and is not able to give a final report of the work in this district. The results of the drive are now being checked up and a report will be made next week.

THE CITY OF SEATTLE MAY BUILD RAILWAY INTO UPPER VALLEY

WOULD RUN FROM ROCKPORT TO RUBY CREEK—RIGHT OF WAY TO BE CLEARED BEFORE DRY SEASON OPENS.

According to plans of operation of Engineer Uhden, in charge of the power project of the city of Seattle on the upper Skagit, a railroad may be built this winter from Rockport to Ruby creek, a distance of 31 miles. The railroad as planned would be a temporary affair, as there would be slight reason for leaving it after the dams and power plant are built. Even with considerable agricultural development in that district, there would not be sufficient traffic to justify the maintenance of the road.

On this account there is a strong sentiment among members of the Seattle city council for the construction of a paved highway from Rockport to Ruby creek instead of a railroad. It is claimed that the building of the power plant will necessitate the use of a considerable number of heavy motor trucks, even with the railroad in operation. This would require expensive improvements to the road, and it is the argument of the councilmen that if the road is properly paved for heavy traffic there will be no necessity for the building of the railroad, and that this improvement would be permanent and would remain after building operations are finished. It is understood that Engineer Uhden, who will make the final decision in the matter, has both plans under consideration.

If the railroad is built it is planned to have the right of way cleared during this winter, so that all fallen timber and brush can be burned before dry weather comes. Burning in dry weather is always dangerous and requires the use of a large force of men to prevent the fires from spreading and starting serious forest fires, and it is to avoid this that work will be rushed through the winter.

The building of the dams and plant will require the carrying of vast quantities of machinery and supplies to the site. According to reports there are now about 100 men employed at the dam sites on Gorge and Ruby creeks. The main work now under way is boring holes to test the natural rock foundations. The upper dam, when completed, will form a lake four miles wide in places, and about fifteen miles long.

WM. RHODES PURCHASES O. BJERSTEDT RESIDENCE

William Rhodes, of Hamilton, who is planning on building a garage in this city this winter, closed a deal for the purchase of the Oscar Bjersted residence property on the corner of Mill street and Division avenue this week. The property consists of a large, well improved lot and a handsome bungalow. Mr. Rhodes is planning on moving his family to this city during the coming week, and expects to become a permanent resident of Concrete. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Owen and children, who are now occupying the residence, have rented the Disalvo cottage in Central Baker addition and will move the first of the week.

BLANCHE KELLEY GIVEN PARTY BY HIGH SCHOOL

The students of the Concrete high school gave a delightful farewell party Thursday evening in the school house in honor of Blanche Kelley, who left last night for Seattle to make her home. The evening was spent in the enjoyment of music, games and in having a general good time. Some delicious refreshments had been prepared for the occasion by the high school girls, but these were stolen during the evening, so this part of the entertainment had to be omitted, to the regret of all present.

says the Good Judge

That it's foolish to put up with an ordinary chew, when it doesn't cost any more to get real tobacco satisfaction.

Every day more men discover that a little chew of real good tobacco lasts longer and gives them real contentment.

There's nothing like it.

ACTION BETTER THAN WORDS

How Lieutenant Colonel Whittlesey Answered the Boche Demand That He Surrender.

Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey, commander of the "Lost Battalion," and winner of the first congressional medal of the war, has been dubbed Go-to-Hell Whittlesey, because of his reputed pithy answer to the German demand to surrender. Now comes Lieut. Arthur McKeogh, adjutant of the battalion, with the complete story which he tells in Everybody's. "As a matter of fact," writes Lieutenant McKeogh, "the colonel sent back no written answer whatever. To those nearest him he did suggest that the Boches could take the well-known easy descent. But the most complete, practical and splendid answer that could have been made to the German proposal he made as he finished reading the note.

"On the side of the hill our airplane liaison agent had spread out his panel to indicate the battalion's position to the divisional planes that had been trying to drop message cylinders and even food within reach of the command. That panel was an equilateral cloth triangle, more than six feet long. Moreover, with the exception of a small black patch, it was white. The thought sprang into the colonel's mind that, inclined as it was on comparatively open ground, the big signal device was probably visible in the Boche lines. And it was white. Messages and food were essential enough, God knows, but suppose the Germans mistook that panel for surrender!

"Whit ordered it taken in at once. That was his answer.

"What words could have been as magnificent!"

WILL NOT BE MADE RELIC

Clemenceau's Coat to Be Missing From Collection of Mementoes of the World's Famous.

Apparently M. Clemenceau's practical mind and hate of show are going to deprive his admirers of the right of gazing at the famous perforated coat and waistcoat in one of the Paris museums, for this is not to be included among the relics of greatness for a future age, like Nelson's coat and the Napoleon relics. There have been some very curious souvenirs of the kind, apart from the half-smoked cigars of royalties which are treasured by some. Most curious of all undoubtedly was Lord Anglesey's "leg." Lord Anglesey lost a leg at Waterloo, and it was buried in the garden of the villa to which he was taken. In after years he used to recall how parties of people visited the spot "to view the grave." A relic of another kind was George II's famous coat, and it was a pleasant trait in the fiery little king that he squeezed himself at Dettingen into the coat he had worn years before at Oudenarde. Horace Walpole's "researches after Queen Mary's comb, Wolsey's red hat, the pipe which Van Tromp smoked during his last sea fight, and the spur which King William struck into the flank of Sorrel's" are famous.—Westminster Guardian.
