SEEN AND HEARD ON MAIN STREET

Dad Gummit has noted that some of our busiest people are only picking up the beans that they spilled themselves.

If you want a path beaten to your door, he adds, you don't have to invent a better mouse-trap; just use one tramp.

Maybe the reason the girls aren't taking advantage of this leap year is due to the fact they are waiting to see if it is constitutional.

"I do odd jobs in a millinery shop."

"Yes, my wife is wearing one."

An American writing to a friend in Japan, commented in a letter: "I don't know if this letter will ever arrive, because the Japanese censor may open it." A week later he received a note from the Japanese postoffice saying, "The statement in your letter is not correct: we do not open letters!"

In spite of the saying, "Don't take your troubles to bed," many married men still sleep with their wives.

Speaking of inconsistencies in the movies, in one scene in a recent production they show the home of a young married couple; and in another, six months later, the furniture is in exactly the same place.

A dentist can build a fine bridge, but sometimes has difficulty in getting patients to come across.

She: "Now that we're engaged I'll give me a ring, won't you?" He: "Certainly. What's your number?"

Slot Machines To Bring City New Revenue

$600 A Year For Operators Of Ten Machines—Council Has Busy Session.

The long talked of ordinance for taxing the pin-ball and other coin machines of the county, was in the process of completion this week after due consideration by the town council at their regular session Monday evening. A committee composed of Councilmen Doyle and Wetzel submitted a proposed ordinance after studying the similar measures passed by other towns during the past year, and their ordinance was accepted and passed first reading by the council as a whole.

The new ordinance will give the town $600 a year more revenue at the least, as the measure calls for payment of $150 a quarter for a license to operate up to ten machines in the community.

The measure also calls for strict supervision of the machine and no minors will be permitted to play the machines. The ordinance is published in full in this issue.

Has Busy Session

The councilmen had a very busy session Monday evening, taking up a number of smaller affairs and settling not a few major ones.

An ordinance raising the salaries of the town marshals was approved, to allow them to collect the additional money made available for them in the 1940 budget.

A report was heard on the purchase of a second-hand grader to replace the present one owned by the city. As the city's machine is in such a state that costly repairs are necessary, an investigation of the cost of a better piece of equipment will be made.

Tony Ursini, representing the Concrete Lions Club revealed the plans of putting up street signs throughout the town and asked for permission to change streets A, B, C and E to names rather than letters. Wm. Doyle and J. E. St. John were named to work with the club in getting a legal opinion on the subject of changing the names, and to figure out the names if they can be changed.

Complaints of persons turning their cars in the middle of the block in front of the post-office led the council to instruct the marshals to install warning signs and begin checking the practice.

Discussion of the city's gasoline purchases led to the suggestion by Mayor Wiseman that the city purchase their own tank and pump and buy on the open market at wholesale. His suggestion was enthusiastically received by Street Commissioner Hornbeck, who said he would find it much more satisfactory in keeping the city equipment fueled. No action was taken, the price of pumps and tanks not being available at the meeting.

At the conclusion of the session Mayor Wiseman appointed Chas. M. Dwyer to fill the vacancy on the council left by his resignation to take over the mayor's chair.

Fire Losses For Concrete Down To Almost Nothing

The annual report of the Concrete Volunteer Fire Dept. to the insurance rating bureau reveals that Concrete was an exceptionally well protected town during the past year. Only seven alarms were turned in, all seven being promptly answered by the department and only $25 fire loss resulted from the seven calls. In addition two special calls were answered out of town where, in spite of lack of hydrants, the department did excellent work. The inhalator squad of the local Fire Department answered three calls during the year, saving one life, being unsuccessful in another and their services not required on the third.

ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

Christian Endeavorers from Whatcom and Skagit counties will hold their annual Spring convention in Lynden, March 8, 9 and 10. Rev. Johnson, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Everett, will be the principal convention speaker. General conferences and classes will be presided over by district pastors and Christian Endeavor leaders.

Coulee Dam To Be Ready By End Of 1940 Says Page

According to a statement by John C. Page, reclamation commissioner, the huge Grand Coulee power project will be completed by the end of 1940. Translated into an item of local interest it means that this year will see the end of the large cement shipments that have been going out regularly for the past few years from the local plant.

The project is now 82 or 83 per cent completed. Page stated. Grand Coulee was allotted twenty-three million dollars for construction this year and recently a seven-million dollar deficiency appropriation was allowed. Twelve million additional has been appropriated to carry on the work for the next fiscal year, starting July 1st.

Mill Buzz Saw Mangles Worker

Al Savage of Bellingham, an employee of the Buller Bros. mill at Marblemount, was taken to the Burlington hospital Friday afternoon as the result of a severe accident while at work at the mill.

Savage was working on the cut-off saw and was clearing away scrap lumber when a weight that held the saw out of the way came loose and allowed it to swing forward. He was struck across the left arm and chest, the saw cutting through arm and chest muscles and narrowly missing going through his chest into his heart.

He is now recovering at the Burlington hospital, where many stitches were taken to close the huge wound. It is expected that a long period will be required before he will recover from the effects of the injury.

Logger Breaks Leg

Another Marblemount resident was injured last week, at Enumclaw. Gurney Stafford, who has been working in the woods for Carl Wilrich, suffered a broken leg on the job last week and is now recuperating in a hospital there. This is the first serious accident the Wilrich company has had in the years they have operated here and at Enumclaw.

SCHOOL CONSTITUTION

Concrete High school, which has never had a constitution, will soon adopt one of its own. Supt. Bacher, using as a pattern constitutions of other schools and colleges, formed the body of the proposed document and met with the Executive Committee of the Associated Students, who approved it, with a few minor changes. At a student body meeting March 8th, the constitution is to be read, discussed and approved by the students. Each student has received a copy of the paper for study.

MINER'S ASSOCIATION STARTS AFTER ROADS

The Washington Prospectors & Miners Association this week began a campaign to get Skagit county enthused over the mineral resources lying dormant in the eastern part of the county, mainly from a lack of roads. The campaign was opened Tuesday evening at Sedro-Woolley when A. A. Elmore of Grand Coulee, president of the state wide organization visited that city.

The aim of the miners is to get enough people interested, so that they will demand development of this coming industry. To achieve this end monthly meetings will be held throughout the county and chapters of the state association are to be organized in the various towns.

A Sedro-Woolley group was perfected Tuesday evening with A. G. Mosier as president; B. D. Vanderveer as vice-president and Frank S. Evans as secretary.

Little Chance For County Cash

Talk of the county taking advantage of the mine-to-market measure, sponsored at the last legislature by R. Fred Martin of Rockport, led to a statement by Commissioner J. T. Mason that he saw no way of matching funds with the state. He stated that with the road funds now available, counties can't possibly match state money, and that is the only way the mine-to-market appropriations can be secured. He said he favored a change in the law whereby direct appropriations for such roads could be made.

Representatives from all parts of the county were present at the Sedro-Woolley meeting. A state convention of the Washington Miners & Prospectors Ass'n. is to be held in Concrete this summer.

ICKES STATES OPINION OF CASCADE PARK IDEA

The House appropriations committee in Washington, D. C. Tuesday, heard Secretary Ickes brand the proposal of a national park in the Cascades mountains of this state "unreasonable." The committee was considering the Dept. of Interior appropriation bill at the time.

Ickes was questioned by Representative Leavy, Washington, about reports that the park would be established. Ickes replied "I do not think it is reasonable. I never heard of it until today."

Leavy continued by telling the Secretary that the park was to be established clear across the state and would take in both the Mount Rainier and Mt. Baker National Park and Forests.

"All in one park?" Ickes asked. "All in one park," said Leavy. "Why not make a park out of the entire state?" Ickes asked. "That is what we are fearful of out there," Leavy retorted.

Whatcom Commissioners To Resume Ruby Road Job

Whatcom county commissioners have signed an agreement with the U. S. Forestry department by which they will cooperate in the work of completing the Ruby Creek mine-to-market road, which was started some time ago. The forestry department will loan the county two air compressors and two tractors to be used by the WPA crew to be employed on the project.

Camp building are now being moved to a higher location due to flooding of the area above the dam, and as soon as the buildings are ready and weather permits, work will be resumed.

Bud Thompson Very Low At Home Here

Bud Thompson, genial proprietor of Bud's Hotel, who recently was brought home from a Seattle hospital after a long siege of illness, was again stricken ill Wednesday evening at the hotel here, and is very low.

The inhalator squad of the local fire department was called yesterday evening when he was first stricken and has been on shift steadily since that time, administering oxygen at half-hour intervals.

Latest reports this afternoon are that he is sinking slowly and unless he takes a turn for better, little hope is held for his recovery. The entire town has been anxiously awaiting words of encouraging nature today and the question: "How is Bud?" is the first word of greeting to anyone coming from direction of the hotel, revealing the esteem in which "Bud" is held by his many friends in the community.

Cement Company Asks Vacation Of City Street

Vacation of a small section of city street and alley adjoining the property of the Superior Portland Cement, Inc., was asked in a petition to the town council this week by the local cement company.

The property in question is the old paved street paralleling Main street in front of the home of G. Frank, and a section of an alley off the street. The cement company has purchased all property in that section and the city has previously vacated all other streets and alleys, so the company desires to secure full title to the block by taking over the remaining bit of street and alley.

As the city has no use for the property, the petition was given an okay for first reading. Legal description will be published next week and a hearing of any objections to completion of the vacation will be heard at the next session of the council.

Larsen, Campbell Keep Posts In School Election

Meurer Appears As Sticker Candidate—Larsen Wins Closely Over Tumleson.

What was expected to be a very quiet and ordinary school election here Saturday, turned out to be another big-vote affair with 317 voters expressing their preference in the selection of two members for the school board.

The election was marked by a last-minute "sticker" campaign in which Wm. Meurer's name was written in preference to Geo. A. Campbell, Director for District No. 3. Meurer received 68 votes, show-improvement candidate. The post was won easily, however, by veteran Geo. A. Campbell, who was given a 220 affirmation vote by the electors.

Elmer Larsen of Sauk won in a close race with C. E. Tumleson of Van Horn for the three-year term as Director for District No. 5. Larsen polled 169 votes to 137 for Tumleson. However a number of ballots were spoiled for Tumleson when the name of the sticker candidate was written under his name. With these counted the race would have been even closer, but with Larsen still out in front.

Only other ballots cast included 2 votes for W. S. Gregory and 1 for Robt. Johnston.

Rockport Election Close

Other communities in the upper valley also had elections of varying degrees of interest on Saturday, the hardest fought being at Rockport where Mrs. Arthur Morehouse was elected over Eddie Clark by a vote of 68 to 46.

At Marblemount R. R. Hawkins of Diobsud Creek was chosen to succeed C. A. Wilrich, retiring director, by a vote of 40 to 7. He was opposed by Clyde Shipp of the Cascade. Wilrich was not a candidate.

The Rocky Creek district election day did not create much interest, only five votes being cast. Four were for Vashti Hooper and one for Tom Borden.

The Birdsview voters re-elected Sam Beck for another term with a complimentary vote of 55. Pete Peterson was chosen for a three-year term by 36 votes.

Voters were given extra incentive to come out and vote Saturday by a break in the weather which brought a beautiful, sunny day to the upper valley after a week of heavy rains.

CITY DUMP TRUCK STILL TO BE BOUGHT

Purchase of a new dump truck for the city, which has been in the process for the past four or five months, was still unsettled after the council session Monday evening, and will hang over for still another session before it can be settled for all time.

Bids were first called in October but were all discarded when it was found no mention was made of a trade-in of the old truck. Following the next call the council voted the order to the second low bidder and again ran into trouble. Last month they awarded the order to Lisherness Auto Co. without a call for bids and found that this procedure was wrong also.

Monday night they decided to start all over again with a new call for bids, improved specifications, and all details to fit the letter of the law—they hope.

Meanwhile the Model T Ford is being carefully nursed along by street commissioner Hornbeck in hopes it will last until the new one makes its appearance.

Garden Club To Hear Lecture On Flower Movies

The Upper Skagit Garden Club will meet next Wednesday, March 14th in the Women's Club rooms at 2:00 o'clock, at which time dessert will be served. Later, motion pictures of Primroses will be shown at the grade school auditorium, with Mrs. Bruce Nelson of Mount Vernon as guest speaker. This will be guest day and members are urged to invite friends. Anyone interested is welcome to attend. Mrs. Wm. Godde and Mrs. Garnet Thompson will act as hostesses.

A project that is awaited with interest is the Lions Club's plan of putting up street signs throughout the town. It will be a welcome move on the part of those who have to direct strangers by the number of telephone poles and the color of the houses. Also it is very likely that residents of this city will learn just which streets are which for the first time.

A few years ago we were arguing editorially about the fact that slot machines took a lot of money out of circulation here without doing much in the way of benefiting the community. With the new ordinance in effect, those who play the machines can console themselves when losing by reflecting that they helped the machine contribute its $60 a year to the city treasury.

Everybody seems to be against the Cascade Park plan, with no one on the other side. Still it stays in the news as a possibility. Nobody wants it and that's just what we keep telling them down at Olympia. And all they say is, "We know, we know."

Much comment is being made on the questions to be asked during the coming census. Keep calm, they couldn't be any more personal than those asked by the fellows who try to sell you insurance. —Or more pointless.

In Concrete Eleven Years Ago This Week

The Concrete Herald, March 7, 1929

Sam Bitonti, well known young man of this city, passed away in the veteran's hospital in Walla Walla Saturday after a long illness, and has since been a semi-invalid. He was well-liked by all who knew him and leaves a host of friends to mourn his untimely death.

Miss Marjorie Norvell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Norvell of this city, was married in Seattle on Saturday to Leon Capitan of that city. The bride has a host of friends in this city and vicinity who are extending best wishes.

The trial of Rex Connolly of this city on a charge of first degree murder for the killing of Merlin Leonard some months ago, started in the Superior court in Mount Vernon yesterday. The state will ask for the death penalty in case of conviction.

The annual school election held in the Concrete district last Saturday brought out the largest vote cast at a school election here for some years, a total of 112 ballots being cast. There were no declared candidates, but the contest proved to be between G. L. Leonard, the retiring member of the present board, and Mrs. Chas. M. Bagnell. When the vote was tallied at the close of the election, it was found that Mrs. Bagnell was the winner by a margin of only two votes, the count being 56 to 54. The other members of the new board are G. A. Campbell and G. W. White. In other upper valley districts, the following directors were elected: Rockport, Jack Snyder; Van Horn, Charles Coone; Sauk, John Moran; Grasmere, John Whitehair and Edwin Carlson; Birdview, W. R. Gee and Carl Russel.

While in the city yesterday, Hugo Bauman, county commissioner for the third district, stated that the location of the new Van Horn road had again been changed. According to present plans, the new road will be built entirely on the right of way of the Great Northern Railway company, and that no other private property would be used.

The new route will start at or near Everett avenue in East Concrete, and from there will parallel the railroad tracks on the north side to a point near Van Horn. Along the steep banks east of the city limits, between the long trestle on the railroad and the hill, a concrete retaining wall will be built, and a fill made between the wall and the bank. It is expected that work will start on the new construction about June 1, and it is estimated that it will be a two year's job.

The Patten orchestra, well and favorably known throughout this region, will give a farewell concert at the Presbyterian church next week. Mr. Robert A. Muller, a member of this orchestra, is departing soon for a visit of undetermined length to Germany, and in again playing before the public the orchestra is yielding to the many requests for lovers of good music.

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held Monday night, to attend to such business as might be on hand. Among other items, the condition of the three vacant buildings on the northeast corner of Main and Baker streets was brought to the attention of the council. It was agreed by the councilmen that all three buildings were unsafe for use and constituted a fire menace, and the clerk was instructed to notify the owners to have them torn down.

H. O. Barber arrived in town the latter part of last week to get acquainted with his new duties as superintendent of the Baker River power plant. He will take charge of the plant about March 15.

In The Groove!

By Leonard Gratterer

When Kay Kyser was a youngster, he dared to enter an amateur song contest in which he was to sing three numbers. In order not to forget the words to these songs, he held small cards in his hand with the lyrics written on them. He won a prize because the audience laughed so much. His feelings were soothed and he laughed with them when he found he had sung the words of song No. 1 to the tune of song No. 2... It's worth anyone's while to listen in for Dorothy Allen because, according to this columnist, she is one of the best ballad singers today. She can be heard singing for Gary Nottingham's band, which plays at the Bal Tabarin Cafe (NBC)... "Ooh, What You Said"... Yes, sir, another prediction of a hit song. It is exceptionally melodious and has simple, catchy words. It is from the show "Three After Three"... Jack Leonard, who used to sing for Tommy Dorsey, is out trying to distinguish himself as a singer. He is heard regularly on Raymond Scott's program, Tuesday nites on CBS... He has one of the most appealing male voices in radio... Wonder what ever happened to Guy Lombardo to give him the corny idea of "creating" a band without a rhythm section??? Maxine Andrews, of the Andrews sisters, will soon altairize with her manager... Another similar report has it that Elisse Cooper, vocalist with Eddie DeLange, will make announcements soon... Ray Noble is creating quite a sensation with his band at the Rose-room Bowl of the Palace Hotel in San Francisco... He is sending them right along with his startling arrangements of both ballad and swing numbers... And with that, plus his Indian Suite (Cherokee, Sioux, Seminole, etc.) watch him go after Glenn Miller's crown... I know I mentioned it before but "Tuxedo Junction" is bound to be a success for the hepcats... Jan Savitt and Erskine Hawkins (it's his theme) have both recorded it in a manner that will send every one of you right out of this world... Watch for the new sentimental ditty to get under your skin... It's called "Last Nights Gardenias"... Well, that's all for now...lg.

The SNAPSHOT GUIDE

GETTING CLEAR PICTURES

The sky background helps this picture, because the subject clearly against it.

EVERYBODY wants to take good, clear pictures—pictures that are sharp and have plenty of detail. This isn't hard to do—if you'll watch both the subject AND the background when you're taking a picture.

To picture a dark subject, you should have a light background. Then the subject will stand out clearly. If the subject is quite light, then a dark background is in order. Outdoors, the sky makes an excellent background for pictures of a person. By using a deep yellow color filter, you can make a blue sky register quite dark. By using no filter, you can make the sky light. In this manner, you may adapt the tone of the sky, so that it yields a good contrasting background for your subject.

Indoors, a plain light-tinted or white wall makes a good light background. For a dark background, pose your subject in front of an open door, leading into a darkened room. Or, place the subject so that you can shoot toward the shadow end of the room.

The best backgrounds are plain, without obvious detail. If the background has a prominent pattern, it will draw too much attention. For example, flower paper makes a poor background for sharp pictures.

A steady camera is essential for sharp pictures. camera moves, the pictures blurred. Even in taking it's a good idea to make convenient support—such as a fence, chair back or table hold the camera against a port, and it will be steady exposures, always camera on a tripod, table, firm support.

When you shoot moving use a higher shutter speed, walking toward the camera, a shutter speed of 1/100. For faster moving, higher speeds are needed.

To get sharp detail, the from camera to subject must be correct. Otherwise, pictures of focus. When possible, the distance—either by measure, or a photograph. This is especially in close-up shots.

Watch these points, simple—and you'll get clearer, better pictures.

The Garden Corner

By Herbert Pruvey, U. of W. Arboretum Gardener

The fine grasses make the fine lawns. It is better not to include clover in fine lawns because of its four major disadvantages. The foliage is too coarse; it is slippery underfoot, it stains and the day after mowing the white flower is again in evidence. Its one advantage is in keeping green longer in summer.

Certain soils require certain seeds. On sandy upland soil use the fescues, as Chewing Fescue and Red Creeping Fescue. On acid or lowland soils use the Bent grasses, such as German Creeping Bent. On hard clay or loam soils the Crested Dog's Tail is better. On economy programs, percentages of Red Top Bent or Rhode Island Bent are good. A straight tint of one grass looks better than two or three or more, but a combination of two or even three with a judicious selection will produce a good lawn.

On the Pacific Coast, Fescues, Bents and Dog's Tails are preferred to Kentucky Blue, which apparently does not make a good lawn in the milder sections, and the blade of the leaf is too wide.

The rate of sowing in spring is one pound to 150 square feet, and in fall one pound to 200 square feet. The reason for the difference is that fall sowing grass spreads out more than spring sowing in small areas. On large areas a thin sowing is usual and feasible.

In sowing divide the seed into two equal parts, sowing one part north and south and the other half east and west, being careful at all times to sow thinly and evenly. It is wise to sow around the edges first. Machines for sowing may be used if desired. Roll if there is a considerable fill, but not if there are cuts for grade. Keep the soil moist all the time and the grass will be up in from four days to a month, depending upon seed, period of sowing, moisture and temperature.

Sometimes the question arises of laying turf. The advantage of turf is that one has a lawn immediately, but it is well to remember that the labor and cost of preparing the surface is approximately the same whether for turf or seed. The disadvantages of laying turf are that good turf is extremely hard to obtain and it costs approximately sixteen times as much for turfing as for seed.

Elsie Petta, Nellie Stevens, Barbara and Dolores Shipp, Howard and Betty Lee Berry. Games were played, gifts opened and refreshments served with a big birthday cake centering the table.

Nobody has ever been able to find this guy. Promiscuously, that all the girls are kissing.

Do You Long For The "Good Old Days"?

The "good old days" had much that was quaint—and much that we would laugh at today. Ask your grandmother to tell you something about the "good old days"—about a shopping trip, for instance.

She'll recall how she trudged to the store with a basket of eggs. How she traded them for barrel sugar and whole-bean coffee. She can tell you about Shiftless Joe who could squirt "tobacco juice" 10 feet to the sawdust box around the pot-bellied stove... and about the cat that slept in the cracker barrel!

Would you want to buy the family food from the old cracker-barrel store?

Answer that question for yourself next time someone tells you that advertising is costing the American household millions of dollars a year. Answer it with careful deliberation, remembering that without national distribution, made possible by advertising, modern stores and tested goods in sanitary packages would no longer be sold. As sure as a cat slept in a cracker barrel, we'd be back in the "good old days."

How about the cost of advertising? Actually advertising costs only a small fraction, often only 1/50 cent, on an article.

That, however, is not the way to judge advertising cost. What of the cost of advertising as long as the goods we buy cost less? And it is a fact that most of the pure, clean, high-quality foods of today cost less than the unbranded, doubtful-value goods of yesteryear.

San Juan County, one of the 39 counties in the State of Washington, consists of the group of 72 beautiful islands lying between the Strait of Juan de Fuca and the Gulf of Georgia. Some of the islands are merely tiny dots on the surface of the water, while others are large enough to support a thriving population. The largest are Orcas with an area of almost 58 square miles;
San Juan, with 54.7 square miles, and Lopez with 40 square miles.
These three islands support more than three-fourths of the county's population.

From San Juan Island, the British flag was seen floating for the last time in what is now known as the United States. The climate of San Juan county is as nearly perfect as may be found. The mean annual temperature is about 50 degrees. Precipitation is about 30 inches annually and is well distributed seasonally.

May Be One Of The Last Very Favorable Building Years

Building materials which cost $1.00 in 1926 can still be purchased for 85c . . . interest which stood at an average to 6 per cent until 1934 is now 4 1/2 per cent . . . lots which cost $1,000 in the 20's are still only about $750 . . . and the standard down payment ment under F. H. A. is now only 10 per cent for houses under $6,000.

Can you imagine any more favorable set of circumstances for the home builder?

All of these favorable factors came together early this year (last year interest was 5 per cent.) How long can this situation last? Interest will probably stay low for some time—but, an increase in industrial activity will tend to raise all prices—building materials included.

NET RESULT—there never has been a better time—and won't be in the future—to build a home!
