THIS AND THAT

By H. L. D.

Many speeches were made on Memorial day about the wars we have been through and those yet to come by men who had gone through those terrifying times and by those who did their fighting in Washington at a comfortable desk. Few who spoke mentioned those who fought to keep this nation one in our own civil war. Their graves lay now in the old parts of cemeteries all over the nation, some still cared for but many forgotten by relatives and friends. To many this is practically ancient history and only something to study while in school, but just this morning I was reading the autobiography of one of those men, Captain Joseph F. Dwelley of LaConner, taken from a diary he kept during that period. In memory of those young men, here are some excerpts from his story:

"That fall Lincoln was elected and the storm clouds began to gather. On the 18th day of the following April I was at the post office in the village when the mail stage came in from Fond Du Lac and a man on the box with the driver sang out that Fort Sumpter had been fired on, that Lincoln had called for 75,000 volunteers, that he had the commission of Captain and was after recruits. As soon as he got down I told him I was ready and signed my name to the lists. We had fourteen in our squad from Stockbridge."

First they were sent to Madison, then on to Washington and put under General Hancock. They passed the winter at Washington. In the spring they went on to Fortress Monroe and camped near Newport News where the battle between the Merimac and the Monitor had taken place a few days before. He wrote: "We saw the Monitor when we landed at Fort Monroe. The Merimac had been built at the navy yard at Charletson before I left Boston and her engines had been built by the Baldwin Locomotve works where my brother was employed. He cast the cylinders for her engines and my father had helped build one of the ships sunk by her."

Ht went on through many battles and was at Gettysburg on the first of July. Of this he wrote: We were thirty-six under where the battle opened, the Sixth Corps reaching the field just at dark. We were held in reserve for a while and then our brigade went to the relief of Little Round Top, and from the top of Round Top I saw Picketts' famous charge in the afternoon of the third day. The twelfth of May I had been commissioned Lieutenant."

His interesting story brings back the years before the most costly and terrible wars began to give Memorial day a more vivid meaning. Let's hope we have no more wars to remember.

HUGE FOREST FIRE CONTROLLED ON UPPER SKAGIT

2,500 Acres Burned Over Near Canadian Border On Ross Lake.

The largest forest fire in the upper Skagit in years started last Friday on upper Ross Lake from brush fires by the City Light crew working in that area, by the week end some 2,500 acres were ablaze in a fire that stretched five and a half miles up the lake from Lightning Creek to Little Beaver.

Most of the fire was over the logging works of Walton Timber, who are clearing the upper basin. An estimated 10 to 12 million feet of cold-decked logs was destroyed, as well as a huge amount of standing and down timber, before the fire was brought under control on Tuesday.

The supression program was in charge of City Light, who had between 75 and 80 men fighting the flames with pumps. The Walton company had about 50 men helping and the Forest Service had a stand-by crew of 20 to 25 men ready for emergency work.

The fire was over logged and down timber where trail building was impossible. Pumps and backfiring finally stopped the spread of the fire. Crews are now busy mopping up all danger spots.

Headquarters for the crew was at the Walton Camp, reached by going up the Fraser through Canada and back into the Skagit watershed.

ANOTHER MOTORIST SURVIVES PLUNGE

Another motorist survived a 150 foot drop off the Newhalem road last week, Edwin W. Blair of Renton, being the latest to experience the dubious thrill of having a car leave the mountain road and plunge over the unprotected enbankment.

The accident occured about 1:00 a. m. last Thursday morning about eight miles west of Newhalem. The car left the road, rolled 100 feet down the cliff and then dropped an additional 50 feet to the railroad tracks.

Blair was badly cut about the head but climbed halfway back up the hill before becoming unconscious. He said he must have been out for about three hours before he could gain enough strength to finish the climb and get to a nearby home. The residents rushed him to the Sedro-Woolley hospital. He is now recovering in good shape.

The car, a 1940 model, was completely destroyed.

In the past year there have been several accidents of the same type along this road, which is a narrow, winding pioneer road built first as a forest fire access road, then improved to handle traffic to the City Light project at Newhalem. A new state highway is planned to replace the present road.

Mrs. Hyde Is Taken May 31

Mrs. John Hyde of this city passed away yesterday at the hospital in Sedro-Woolley after a long illness. Mr. and Mrs. Hyde had been residents here for the past two years, coming here from Sumas. Mr. Hyde was employed at Lake Shannon.

Mrs. Hyde was born in England and came to Canada as a young girl. There she met and married Mr. Hyde. They moved to Sumas from Canada about fifteen years ago.

Besides her husband, surviving her is a nephew, Joe Styles.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at Sumas.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Roller spent Memorial day on a picnic party at Lake Whatcom. Present were Mr. and Mrs. John West and twins of Sedro-Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson and children of Clear Lake, Ed Roller of Mount Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Barnhart and Mrs. Cecil Beasley and son Donald of Samish.

High School Graduates Twenty-three

Commencement exercises were held last night at the high school gym with all the usual excitement of the passing of another class from Concrete High. Twenty-three graduating Seniors heard fine talks by Salutatorian George Live, Valedictorian Winston Saimons, and Principal Speaker Wendell Phipps, then were thrilled by the presentation of the coveted Citizenship Plaque Award to Jean Wenrick and George Livie.

In another surprise award Winston Saimons received a scholarship from Washington State College for his high grade standards.

Other awards, presented by Principal Gordon McIntire included pins for Bill Johnson, president of the class for the entire four years of high school and for Kenneth Cuthbert, who served four years as class representative. George Williams also won mention for his work as student body president.

Activity awards were presented to Livie, Howell, Goodwillie, Gates, Johnson, Saimons, Wegers, Wenrick, Newby, Williams and Horn.

Honor Society students were Gates, Horn, Johnson, Wegers, Livie and Wenrick.

Catherine Wegers and Winston Saimons received awards for four years of perfect attendance.

Fine Talks

George Livie's Salutatory address was on the subject of "Good Citizenship", in which he told of the training received in high school for making good citizens in future life.

Winston Saimons made his talk a farewell to the high school days and closed with a word of thanks to the administration, the teachers and the school patrons who made possible the classes' education.

The talk by Wendell T. Phipps, former superintendent here, was on "Global Minds for a Global World" in which he gave many interesting examples of present air travel shrinking the globe into a place where no person is more than 36-hours away from the rest of the world. He told the class to think in these terms and pioneer in a new world-wide frontier of opportunity.

Chairman Fred Shular of the school board presented the Seniors with their diplomas, after which the class sang their "Alma Mater".

Music for the program was by the school band and girl's chorus, with a special trumpet quarter of Seniors.

Rev. Robert Riffle gave the Invocation and Benediction.

TWO DIE IN PLANE CRASH ON ROSS LAKE MONDAY

Lake City Couple Die As Sons Escape When The Plane Hits Lake.

A private plane flown to Ross Lake Monday for a fishing trip, crashed on taking off there that afternoon carrying to death Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Yanick of Lake City, while their two sons managed to crawl clear of the wreckage and escape without injury.

The plane was attempting to take off from the lake behind Ross dam, flying toward the dam from Ruby Creek. The pilot saw that he was not gaining enough altitude to clear the dam, attempted to turn and in doing so side-slipped into the lake.

Hank Moore, state game protector, witnessed the crash and was on the scene in his boat a few seconds later. In approaching the plane he heard a cry for help and found the two boys swimming in the water. The oldest boy shouted for him to pick up his brother and started for shore. Hank got the boy out of the water then tried to get close to the plane to rescue the other occupants.

He stated he believed they were unconscious as no sound came from the plane. It was sinking rapidly all the time and nearly caught the boat when the nose went down, throwing the tail over in an arc that almost hooked the boat rail as Mr. Moore gunned it out of the way.

Miles, 14 years old, was credited with saving his brother, 12, by unhooking the safety belt as the plane crashed and dragging him out the door.

The plane was located that evening by grappling hooks, but no effort was made to try to raise it until divers arrived. It was in 80 feet of water and could easily slide into the much deep channel.

Bodies were removed from the plane Wednesday evening shortly after 7:00 p. m. by a diver. They were flown to Seattle by plane.

Mr. and Mrs. Yanick owned the plane, together with two other Lake City friends. CAA reported that the plane had taken off from the Kenmore Harbor Sunday and had been held at the lake that night because of bad weather.

Police Chief Now Knows His Job Much Better

Concrete's Chief of Police, Bill Marine, is a well-educated police officer this week, having just returned from a two week, 100-hour course in police work. The course was given at the Law Enforcement Officers School May 15th to 26th at McChord Field.

The police officers at the school were from all parts of the state and top men in police work instructed the men in various phases of work from fingerprinting and photography down to the fine art of split-second pistol shooting.

Chief Marine came through with high grades and received his diploma. He was sent to the school by the town and county sheriff's offce, for whom he is a deputy.

We hear that there may be work started soon on our Skagit river bridge. It is long overdue and no big cheers will spring from the lips of the populace until they see steel girders going into place. The slowness with which a project can move has never been so fully demonstrated as on this project. The ultimate completion will bring no special credit to anyone concerned, except as a triumph of time over red-tape.

Speaking of time and projects, we also hear the Avon-Fredonia cut-off is reported as about ready to be started. We remember having a number of Chamber of Commerce sessions about this with Hugo Bauman. It was almost ready to go then.

Democrats condemn any practice of looking backward. Naturally. A few hasty peeks revealed a trail of destruction of principles, morals and national integrity that few voters should be encouraged to review.

Typographical errors sometimes have a ring of truth. Even so was the reference to this section of the nation as the Great Northwet.

The big type and loud talk is not necessarily the truth. Some of the greatest bits of wisdom are spoken softly.

This is the kind of weather when all "world is in a mess" editorial writers should take a vacation.

A man's honor is worth only what he is willing to suffer to keep it. Once sold it is valueless.

School's out. This used to be the time when the kids took off their shoes. Now they want the car.

CONCRETE ROADS

Serve for Many Years

At Low Annual Cost

Concrete pavements generally carry the heaviest traffic. Yet their annual maintenance cost is far lower than any other pavement intended for similar service. And the rugged strength and stamina of concrete assure long life — many years of all-weather service without interruptions or frequent repairs or rebuilding.

Compare construction costs too, and you'll find that concrete pavement usually costs less to build than any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

So with long life, low maintenance expense and economical first cost, concrete is easily the best investment for motorists' gasoline tax money. assuring as it does, low annual cost — the true measure of pavement economy.

NATIONAL FOREST NOTES

By Fritz Moisio
Forest Ranger, Skagit Ranger Dist.
Mt. Baker National Forest

The present Ross dam height provides for a storage of 1,400,000 acre feet of water. This will be equivalent to about 580 million kilowatt hours of electrical energy each year. Yet, in spite of all these kilowatts, 72 fishermen enjoyed this same water and area to the extent of 72 creel limits of fish. That is what we mean when we talk about multiple use of the National Forest resources.

Full recreational enjoyment and development within the Upper Skagit will not be possible until the present power projects are completed. However, in the meantime the area is open to public enjoyment as is. The recreation program for the area is in the planning stage.

For those people who plan to fish Ross Lake, camp fire permits may be obtained from the Marblemount Ranger Station—or for your convenience (so you wont miss any trains) the permits are issued also by Frank Barnett at his boat float on Ross Lake.

As forest fire weather is approaching we urge every forest user to follow these simple rules:

1. Select a safe place for your campfire—clear to mineral earth and make sure that nearby inflamable materal is removed so that it cannot become ignited.
2. Build a small fire only consistent with your needs.
3. Never leave a fire unattended even for a short time.
4. Completely extinguish all fires that may be unattended at any time before breaking camp.
5. Bury or burn all refuse.
