TWO-YEAR JOB NEARING END

LAKE SHANNON'S YEARS OF DRIFT NOW PILED FOR BURNING

The task of clearing millions of feet of floating logs out of Lake Shannon was virtually completed last week in a Puget Sound Power and Light Co. project which has taken most of two years.

Over five million board feet was removed from the lake to make it safe for small boats. The clearing has extended to the upper end of the lake, and, except for a few logs lodged on snags, the work under the present contract has been finished.

Burning of the water-soaked logs is continuing and, weather permitting, will be completed in two or three weeks. About 150,000 feet of logs remain to be burned.

The clearing contract was in charge of Cascade Northern Construction Co. with Ray Larcom, subcontractor of the booming of the logs and John Snyder, sub-
